WHEREAS, the late Senator Ramon Revilla is universally acclaimed as one of the pillars of Philippine showbusiness for his valuable and numerous contributions in the growth of the local filmmaking industry as an actor, producer, writer, and director.

WHEREAS, the late senator appeared in over 74 films as an actor and single-handedly created a niche for himself as the imperfect wielder of the "agimat", who either sought justice or his rightful place under the sun, and who was always sympathetic to the downtrodden.

WHEREAS, among the many accolades the late senator won was as FAMAS Best Actor in 1973 for Hulihin si Tiyagong Akyat, the Outstanding Film Production Award for his very own Imus Productions in 1975, the Best Film Producer Award in 1976, the Box Office King title in 1979, and the Lifetime Achievement Award given to him in 2011 during the 33rd Catholic Mass Media Awards Night.

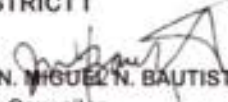

WHEREAS, the above-mentioned honors pale in comparison to the admiration shown to him by millions of his fans who not only flocked to watch his movies but who also came in droves to elect him to two successive terms as Senator of the Republic of the Philippines – a role he
